CORPORATE VISION

Creating a new connected age of people, things and information with efficient, compact and precision technologies

INDUSTRY OVERVIEW

Given the increasing public awareness of environmental protection, modern governments have to serve as an example by creating a green and energy-efficient office environment.

It is where Epson comes in to offer a leading range of devices that help government departments deliver quality services and reduce their impact on the environment. For instance, the innovative business inkjet copiers with print management function will avoid unnecessary waste of resources and manpower, allowing government agencies to focus on more important tasks.

Epson strives to support the government in their green endeavor by upgrading its core technologies and distinctive offerings, and contributing towards a better environment and future.
