Orient Launches Second Edition World Map Model from the Revival Collection to Commemorate the Brand's 75th Anniversary

Orient has released a 75th anniversary limited-edition World Map model from its Revival Collection which looks back on the brand's 75-year history to reproduce its most iconic timepieces. This second edition revival model brings back the popular World Map, known for its multi-coloured dial and world map motif, with a special two-toned case adorned with gold colouring.

ORIENT

Orient 75th Anniversary
Since 1950

Orient has been loved by watch aficionados worldwide since 1950 for its creative, original designs and the reliability of its mechanical movements. The Revival Collection features models that have symbolised the essence of the brand through the course of its long watchmaking history. The original designs are faithfully reproduced and enhanced with modern specifications. The new World Map model commemorating Orient's 75th anniversary follows the first Revival Collection release in 2021, and is available in a limited edition of 1,500 pieces.

With its retro look, World Map is one of the watches that truly represents Orient's history and the era. Its origin can be traced back to World Diver* released in 1969, a model that combined the characteristics of a diver's watch and travel watch in a style that is uniquely Orient. World Diver itself was conceived as a successor to the legendary and rare Calendar Auto Orient Swimmer World Trip* released in 1964 – the year that Japan lifted restrictions on overseas travel to the Japanese public. The model's simplified world time function symbolized the aspirations of Japanese people who dreamed of travelling overseas: it allowed users to estimate the time in various regions around the world by rotating the 24-hour display inner ring using the crown at the four o'clock position on the case, until it aligned with the dial's world map as seen from the southern hemisphere.

The new World Map model commemorating Orient's 75th anniversary is equipped with the same design and functions as the first revival model, along with special specifications such as placing the Orient logo in cursive from the 1950s on a multi-coloured dial that faithfully reproduces the original model from 1969, as well as adorning the case rim and crown with gold colouring. The case back is also engraved with a cursive inscription "Orient Since 1950 75th Anniversary" and individual serial numbers. The watch comes in a special 75th anniversary box.

The new model's two-toned, stainless steel and gold-coloured case reproduces the unique, retro-futuristic design of the original model while being updated to achieve water resistance to 20 bar. The integrated metal bracelet offers a comfortable fit and the automatic (with hand winding) in-house calibre F6922 provides stable accuracy. The 75th anniversary World Map model is a must-have both for dedicated Orient fans and collectors around the world seeking rare, one-of-a-kind watches.

*Neither of the original models meet current ISO standards as there were no clear standards for divers' watches at the time. Both models are now discontinued.
